

THE JEWISH CALENDAR

The Jewish calendar has lunar months (based on the moon's cycle), and solar years (based on the sun). This means that months are 29 or 30 days long, and leap years have an extra month so that festivals always fall in the correct season, as shown:

